New York, NY – JUNE 1, 2026 – Mixed Martial Arts Group Limited (NYSE American: MMA) ("MMA" or the "Company" and doing business as MMA.INC), a technology driven ecosystem at the forefront of the global combat sports industry, today highlighted the extraordinary global response following the announcement that investor and strategic advisor Conor McGregor will return to competition on July 11, 2026.

According to recent reports by Sports Illustrated and Yahoo Sports, demand for tickets has intensified sharply following the announcement of McGregor's return, with listed resale prices including front-row seats above $43,000 and floor seats above $4,000. The UFC has confirmed that UFC 329: McGregor vs. Holloway 2 will headline International Fight Week at T-Mobile Arena in Las Vegas.

Widely regarded as one of the biggest commercial attractions in combat sports history, McGregor's return has rapidly become one of the most talked about events in global sport, generating substantial media coverage, fan engagement and social media activity across international markets.

For MMA.INC, the heightened attention surrounding McGregor aligns closely with the Company's strategy of building the leading technology, participation and fan engagement platform serving the global combat sports industry.

McGregor is both an investor and strategic advisor to MMA.INC, while renowned coach John Kavanagh, McGregor's long-time mentor and Head Coach, serves as a co-founder of the Company. Together, these relationships provide MMA.INC with deeply authentic connections to two of the most influential figures in the modern history of mixed martial arts.

The Company believes the extraordinary demand surrounding McGregor's comeback reinforces the scale of the global combat sports audience and highlights the significant commercial opportunity associated with connecting fans, athletes, coaches and gyms through a unified participation ecosystem.

MMA.INC's ecosystem includes more than 530,000 user profiles, over 100,000 active students, approximately 18,000 published gym listings and 800 verified gyms across 22 countries.

“The reaction to Conor’s return has been extraordinary,” said Nick Langton, CEO of MMA.INC.

“When tickets sell out rapidly and secondary market prices climb to these levels, it demonstrates the extraordinary commercial impact of a truly generational athlete. Few individuals in any sport have influenced fan engagement, mainstream awareness and audience growth to the extent Conor has during the past 13 years. The response to his return is yet another reminder of the scale of his influence and the enduring strength of the global MMA fan base.

Through our growing technology platform, our long time relationship with Conor as an investor and strategic advisor, and John as a co-founder, MMA.INC is uniquely positioned to participate in and leverage the attention surrounding some of the biggest moments in combat sports.”

The Company expects Conor’s fight to generate significant global attention across athletes, coaches, gyms and fans, providing opportunities to further increase awareness of MMA.INC’s growing ecosystem and its mission to become the leading participation platform for the global combat sports industry.
